

What we do for hospice trustees

Are you doing these key things to make the most of your membership?

Connect with peers through networks and events

Join our Trustee Network to become part of a national community of hospice trustees. Our meetings enable trustees from across the UK to share and discuss examples of best practice in hospice governance. Once you join, you'll also be invited to our Trustee Essentials webinars.

Events like our National Conference are a great opportunity to connect with colleagues in person and bring key learnings back to your hospice.

Strengthen your skills and knowledge

Participate in our Trustee Essentials series, designed to provide new and existing trustees with an introduction to Hospice UK and the wider hospice sector. Connect with peers and develop a foundation of knowledge on key topics, from statutory funding to the national policy landscape.

You can also take part in our Big Conversations - a series of online deep dives into current topics affecting the sector. Sessions range from practical workshops to roundtable discussions.

Influence and advise on our work

Chairs of hospice trustee boards can inform and advise on the work of Hospice UK through the Hospice Boards Council. This council is part of our governance system.

Each region of the UK has an elected member who sits on the Council. They are responsible for raising awareness of local governance issues, informing and advising on our work, and sharing information with each other.

Keep up to date with Hospice UK and the wider sector

You may wish to sign up to our flagship newsletter, Hospice Leaders Briefing, to stay up to date.

We will also send regular updates to Chairs via your elected Hospice Boards Council representatives and a quarterly email from our Chair Paul Jennings.

Share your innovative work and learn from other hospices

Let us know how your hospice is implementing innovative practice in hospice governance. We'll share your examples with other hospices via our Examples of Innovation directory. This free online resource showcases practical case studies drawn from our member hospices. Search by keyword and theme to find exactly what you're looking for.

Find out where your hospice fits in the national picture

Contribute to our understanding of hospice care in the UK by encouraging your organisation to participate in one of our data collection surveys. By participating, you can compare your hospice's data with the national hospice landscape.
